Poetical.

In Autumn.

The year grows splendid on the mountain steep,
Now lingers long the warm and gorgeous light
Dying by slow degrees into the deep
Delicious night.

The fatal triumph of the perfect year,
Rises the woods' magnificent array;
Beyond the purple mountain hights appear
And slope away.

The elm, with musical, slow motion, leaves
His long, lithe branches on the tender air;
While from his top of gray, sordelo waves
His scarlet hair.

Where Spring first hid her violets 'neath the fern,
Where Summer's fingers opened, fold on fold,
The odorous, wild, red rose's head, now torn
The leaves of gold.

The loftiest hill—the lowliest flowering herb—
The fairest fruit of season and of clime—
All wear alike the mood of the superb
Autumnal time.

Now nature pour her last and noblest wine;
Like some Bacchante, beside the shining streams
Reclines enchanted day, wrapped in divine,
Impassioned dreams.

But where the painted leaves are falling fast,
Among the vales, beyond the farthest hill,
There sits a shadow—dim, and sad, and vast,
And fingers still.

And still we hear a voice among the hills—
A voice that moans among the haunted woods,
And with the mystery of sorrow fills
The solitudes.

For while gay Autumn gilds the fruit and leaf,
And doth her fairest festal garments wear,
Lo! Time, all noiseless, in the mighty sheaf,
Binds up the year,—

The mighty sheaf which never is unbound—
The reaper whom your souls beseech in vain—
The lovest, last year which never may be found,
Or loved again.

[From Chambers' Journal.]

A MIDDLE-AGED LOVE STORY.

They had come, a little group of friendly faces, to watch me off, with waving handkerchiefs and kindly good-bys, and I stood on the stern, nodding and waving back, till the steamer swept down the river out of sight.

I knew I should have their prayers that the great sea might be gentle with me; I knew they would watch the weather and look for the telegram of the arrival of our ship; yet I knew I was taking nothing from their lives, and that they would each go home hardly missing me; so it was with no great wrench of heart that I saw the pilot put off from us, and took the last look at my native shores.

During most of the passage I was just comfortably sea sick, so I sat all the day long in a reclining chair on deck, watching the white caps on the purple and green and blue waves that mounted and fell down and up, up and down, away out to the far horizon. I saw the shining nautiluses float by, now and then a whale, or a shoal of porpoises, or a sail, speeding white and full across the water.

I saw also a good many other things nearer by, for I didn't put my eyes in my pocket along with my short-sighted glasses, and nobody was much likely to mind a middle aged woman in hood and water-proof.

The first thing I saw was a young girl with dark eyes and brown hair that rippled itself into a tangle of rough curls whenever she took off her net. She was not so very pretty nor so very brilliant; but there was a piquant charm about her that attracted half the passengers before the first day was over. By the end of the second day everybody, from the captain to the ship's surgeon, and from the surgeon to the cabin boy, was eager to show her attention; and everybody was met by the same genial smile and lively retort.

She won her way at once into my heart by the kindly thought that led her to bring little relishes from the table to tempt my sickly appetite, and to soothe my forehead with bay-water, and gentle touches of her shapely brown hands, where a great emerald glittered, encircled by diamonds. Very soon she got in the habit of drawing her rug beside my chair, and sitting on the deck leaning against me, so that I might "pet her," as she said.

This was how it happened that my quiet out-of-the-way corner came to be the center of the life and gayety and romance of the whole shipboard.

It seemed that this young girl, Rosa Armour, was an only child, and an orphan, going to an uncle in Germany, her nearest of kin.

"Dear heart! I hope her uncle will be wise as well as loving," said I to myself very often, for she seemed too fragile a bubble of humanity to drift on through life alone.

The tips of the brown curls were lighter than the rest; and here and there were little bright touches all over her hair, as though the sun was shining in spots on it. One morning I sat coiling these gleams of sunshine around my fingers, and watching a flock of Mother Carey's chickens skim restlessly over the restless water, thinking these thoughts about Rosa, and having her soft presence alone to myself for a few moments. Not many, however; soon came up a New Zealander or an Australian on our boat.

"You are very lowly, Miss Armour," said he. "Let me bring you a chair."

"Thank you; I prefer to sit here on my rug and have Miss Wells pet me," replied Rosa, turning up her eyes languidly. "The deck is my favorite seat, if I can only have an excuse to sit on it."

"But you need something over you," persisted the New Zealander, going away, and coming back directly with his own heavy gray wrap. Then he seated himself on a low camp stool beside her, folding the wrap over the two. "I never saw so rough a sea as this all the way from Honolulu to San Francisco," said he, looking out upon the gentle swell of the lazily mounting waves.

"Rough!" cried Miss Armour. "I am sure the ocean is as smooth as a millpond!"

"Oh! but not as compared to the Pacific—peaceful; it was rightly named. We have never such gales on that as sweep the Atlantic, but only the gentlest westerly breezes." The New Zealander shivered as he spoke, and drew his wrap close over his knees. "We have the most charming climate in New Zealand," he went on; "we are never too hot, and never too cold. In fact we never think of the weather. And the soil is the most fertile in the world."

"Pity it is in such an out of the way part of the earth that nobody can live there," said Miss Armour.

"Beg your pardon, Miss; there are several English towns of 30,000 inhabitants each, and we never think of ourselves as being out of the way, but rather feel sorry for those who live so far off," returned the other, bending his tall figure earnestly forward.

Rose leaned her pretty head toward him in a confiding attitude of interest, and laughed: "Oh, so you are the people, and wisdom is going to die with you," said she. "But what do you do out there in the heart of the universe?"

"We dig gold for one thing, and raise sheep for another—millions of them; from thirty to forty vessels are constantly plying to England with the tallow and pressed wool."

"What do you do with all that mutton?" asked Rosa, looking idly at the light in her ring, and then as idly at the light in the speaker's eyes.

"We use what we can," was the reply; "and sometimes, I am sorry to say, we bury the flesh—not usually; but sometimes an order will come to one farmer for a thousand sheep, if you please, and all he can do is to clip off the wool, get out the fat, and bury the carcasses."

"What a pity the meat can't be sent to the hungry poor at home! Why don't somebody condense it as they do the beef in Texas?" I said in my practical way.

"In good time, I dare say, somebody will; but we can't do everything at once," replied the New Zealander, looking with sudden interest at the game of shuffleboard being played beside us.

Just then along came the ship's surgeon, a blonde youth in uniform, with his hair parted in the middle.

"Miss Armour," said he, "the gun is to be fired at the bow; will you come and see it done?"

Miss Armour started up at once, turning the same half confiding glance and ready smile upon him she had been giving us.

"I am going to leave my rug with you; I shall come back," said she, beaming over her shoulder upon me as she took the surgeon's arm and went away.

The New Zealander looking after her, tried to console himself by drawing his wrap in another fold across his knees, did not succeed, and finally got up and went away. Of course it was not worth his while to make himself agreeable to a middle aged woman in hood and water proof. So I sat, and looked at the likeness of a lake among the sunset clouds, and tried to decide whether I had better take oatmeal gruel or biscuit tea for my supper; wondering the while, half unconsciously, about the old chord in my memory that was always being struck by a certain musical ring in the New Zealander's voice.

After an hour or so the gun was fired, and presently Miss Armour came back, and with the disorder of the strong sea wind in her hair, and its freshness in her pretty pink cheeks.

"I've come as I said," she murmured, dropping at my feet again, and smiling up, as though she had got where she best loved to be—just such a smile as she would have given to the stokers down in the engine room, or the ship's cat. But it was lovely to look upon while it lasted; and we middle aged people have learned to warm ourselves in any chance ray of sunlight, without stopping to consider whether it is likely to be perpetual.

This time the bit of sunshine did not stay long; for there came up an artist with his sketch book; and when Miss Armour had sufficiently admired his graphic pencilings of the captain and the quartermaster, and the sea sick occupants of an upper berth, it was time to throw the log; and so he bore her off, to find out by her own eyes whether we were actually going at the rate of thirteen knots, or only twelve and a half.

That was how the days went. The passengers read and paced the deck, played games and guessed riddles, and were always hungry; the pilot stood steady and firm at the wheel; the sailors ran up and down about the rigging like overgrown spiders, and were forever scouring and scrubbing, tying and untying, drawing up and letting down. Thus, at last, we had come safely almost to our desired haven. With fair sailing, we were only one day out from port; fond as we had grown to be of each other, we were getting impatient to part.

Miss Armour, during all the voyage, had kept on as she begun, beguiling every one with her trick of lip and eye. They ran after her like boys at the string of a kite. Well, they had nothing better to do just then; and when she had faded out as a rainbow fades, I made no doubt she would be as easily forgotten, or only remembered as a midsummer's day dream, by all, unless it might be a solitary, warm hearted man like the New Zealander. To tell the truth, I was a little sorry for him. Evidently, life had not brought him all it might; and he was hungry for the love and confidence that had never been his. So I was afraid he would miss this little sparkle of girlhood and warm youth, and find the void deeper when it had gone out.

To the very last day, Rosa kept her place by my chair, and to the very last the New Zealander kept his place by her, when no one younger stepped in to carry her off, which was pretty often, to be sure. Then, he always quietly went away himself, with a kind of grave regret in his face. On the last morning, Miss Armour had just left us, along with a young lawyer, to drop oranges and lemons among the steerage passengers, when I noticed the new Zealander looking after her with a sadder regret than usual—almost a pain—in his eyes. He had such handsome dark eyes! I could see that without my glasses.

"Now," said I to myself, "I hope he isn't going to get soft—a sensible, gentlemanly, agreeable man like him, and quite old enough to be her father!"—And so I looked at him to see if he was, when suddenly he turned upon me.

"At least you might have written, Agatha Wells!" said he, sharply.

I started, as you may think, to hear my own name spoken so familiarly by a stranger; when looking again, behold! I saw beneath the bronze, and under the wrinkles and behind the beard a face that twenty years before was the dearest in the world to me—the face of Duncan Ashley. We parted one day expecting to meet on the next, but that evening he was called away, and wrote instead of coming. In that letter he said what he had said before, with his eyes—yes, those same beautiful eyes—that I was the choice of his heart and the desire of his life.

"Answer me, I cannot wait till I see you."

So I answered—a long foolish letter, though there was no need of writing; for he had read all I could say long before, with those eyes of his; then I watched and waited for him, but never saw him or heard one word more. If you are young, you can imagine the slow dying out of hope and expectation, and if you are old, you know how such things can be lived over, and hidden in secret graves.

But now, as though the graves had been opened, and the judgment set, came this sudden reproachful question up from the buried past. I faintly caught my breath, as I turned back my eyes and looked him in the face again.

"Forgive me," said he directly, in a gentler tone, "I did not mean to speak. You brought it out with your eyes; that questioning turn was so familiar. Of course you were quite right, and I never blamed you. I never meant you should see me again, but the temptation to feel myself besides you, only to be in the soothing charm of your presence was too great. It has been a blessing I shall carry with me all the rest of my life."

He was rising to go away, but I put out my hand. "I did write, Duncan Ashley," said I, "the letter must have gone wrong."

"You did! You wrote!" he cried, sinking back to his chair again, and looking at me eagerly. "What did you say?"

"There was only one thing I could say; and I said that," I answered, blushing as though I had just written the letter.

A middle aged woman in hood and waterproof. But, dear me, it was only my face that was middle aged, after all; my heart was as young and silly as ever. And as far as Duncan's face, the marks of care, and thought, and time, fell off, leaving in it only the eternal youth of love.

It was the only story of a lost letter, and the older story of a proud man believing himself rejected and humiliated, and fleeing to the ends of the earth with his pain.

"Twenty precious years were wasted!" said my new Zealeander. "We will not be separated another day while we both live. There is a clergyman among our passengers; and we will be married this very hour!"

That was so like his headlong decisions! Certainly he did need a sober, second thought like me for ballast.—"That cannot be!" I cried. The ceremony wouldn't be legal without a license or something.

And I would by no means do anything so sensational and conspicuous.

"But, bless you heart! I might as well have tried to wipe up the Atlantic with my pocket handkerchief. He was so grieved, and so impatient, and so resolute (and, indeed, twenty years is long enough for an engagement), that I finally dropped off my water proof and sea sickness, and stood up behind the pinnacle, and was married before eight bells that morning, ring and all.

Duncan produced it from a small kasket where he had carried it in his waistcoat pocket for the whole twenty years.

"I could never bear to put the little thing away," said he looking at it tenderly.

The next day we came to port, with the sun shining and our flags flying.—There was a flurry of good-byes, a hoisting of trunks, a welcoming of friends on the shore, and a glad hurrying to and fro.

Among the rest was an instant's nestling of Miss Armour's lips on my cheek, and a little cling of her hand in mine, the vanishing of a smile—and she was gone, like the flash of a fire-fly, out of my sight forever. But wherever she is, and however she fares, she has the daily blessings of two middle-aged hearts, whose way to each other she unconsciously lighted.

Concerning Colonels.

To call a man "Colonel" is to convey the idea that he is of a mild, meek and benevolent disposition. It is also an evidence that he never was a soldier. For instance, we may recall some of the colonels of Philadelphia. There is Colonel Forney, Colonel McClure, Colonel McMichael, Colonel Scott, Colonel Mann, Colonel Fitzgerald, Colonel Phillips, Colonel Green and Colonel Fitz. Of what regiment? And we might mention many more gentlemen of high standing who have never been in the army, and can only be called "Colonel" as a tribute to their antipathy to blood. If every colonel was a soldier, the standing army in Philadelphia would be a menace to our liberties. Their number is as great as it was in San Francisco, to which John Phœnix bears witness in the following story: The steamer was leaving the wharf, and everybody was taking leave of friends—all but Phœnix, who had no friends to bid him farewell. Ashamed of his loneliness, as the boat sheered off, he called out in a loud voice, "Good-by, Colonel," and, to his great delight, every man on the wharf took off his hat and shouted "Colonel, good-by!"—Philadelphia Post.

Woman's Wit.

The following passage in the life of Gustavus Vasa, when that distinguished monarch took refuge from the Danish usurper in Delecarlia, to mature his noble plan for the deliverance of his country, is truly dramatic:

On a little hill stood a very ancient habitation, of so simple an architecture that you would have taken it for a hind's cottage, instead of a place that in times of old had been the abode of nobility.

It consisted of a long farm-like structure, formed of fir, covered in a strange fashion with scales and odd ornamented twistings in carved wood.

But the spot was hallowed by the virtues of its heroic mistress, who saved, by her presence of mind, the life of the future deliverer of her country.

Gustavus, having, by an evil accident been discovered in the mines, bent his course towards this house, then inhabited by a gentleman by the name of Pearson, whom he had known in the armies of the late administrator.

Here, he hoped, from the obligation he had formerly laid on the officer, that he should, at least, find a safe retreat.

Pearson, received him with every mark of friendship; nay, treated him with respect and submission which noble minds are proud to pay to the truly great, when robbed of their external honors.

He exclaimed with such vehemence against the Danes, that instead of awaiting a proposal to take up arms, offered, unasked, to try the spirit of the mountaineers, and declared that himself and his vassals would be the first to set an example, and turn out under the command of his beloved General.

Gustavus relied on his word, and promising not to name himself to any while he was absent, some days afterwards saw Pearson leave the house to put his design into execution.

It was indeed a design, and a black one.

Under the specious cloak of a zealous affection for Gustavus, the traitor was contriving his ruin.

The hope of making his court to the Danish tyrant, and the expectation of a large reward, induced him to sacrifice his honor to his ambition, and for the sake of a few ducats, violate the most sacred laws of hospitality, by the betrayal of his guest.

In pursuance of that base resolution, he proceeded to one of Christiern's officers commanding in the province, and informed him that Gustavus was his prisoner.

Having committed this treachery, he had not the courage to face his victim, but telling the Dane how to surprise the prince, who, he said, believed himself under the protection of a friend, he proposed taking a wider circuit home, while they, apparently unknown to him, rifled it of its treasure.

"It will be an easy matter," said he, "for not even my wife knows that it is Gustavus."

The officer, at the head of a party of well-armed soldiers, marched directly to the lake, the men invested the house, while the leader, abruptly entering, found Pearson's wife, according to the fashion of those days, employed in culinary preparations.

And some distance from her, sat a young man in a rustic garb, lopping off the knots from the broken branch of a tree.

The officer told her he came in King Christiern's name to demand the rebel Gustavus, who he knew was concealed under her roof.

The dauntless woman never changed color; she immediately guessed the man whom her husband had introduced as a miner's son to be the Swedish hero.

The door was blocked up by soldiers.

In an instant she replied, without once glancing at Gustavus, who sat motionless with surprise—

"If you mean the melancholy gentleman my husband has had here these two days, he has just walked out into the wood, on the other side of the hill. Some of these soldiers may readily seize him, as he has no arms with him."

The officer, not suspecting the easy simplicity of her manner, ordered part of his men to go in quest of him.

At that moment, suddenly turning her eyes on Gustavus, she flew up to him, and catching the stick out of his hand exclaimed in an angry voice—

"Unmannerly wretch! What, sit before your betters? Don't you see the king's officers in the room? Get out of my sight, or some of them shall give you a drubbing!"

As she spoke, she struck him a blow on the back, with all her strength; and, opening a side door, "There, get into the scullery," cried she, "it is the fittest place for such company!" and giving him another knock, she flung the stick after him, and shut the door.

"Sure," added she, in a great heat, "never woman was plagued with such a lout of a slave!"

The officer begged she would not disturb herself on his account, but she, affecting great reverence for the king, and respect for his representative, prayed him to enter her parlor, while she brought him some refreshments.

The Dane civilly complied; perhaps glad enough to get from the side of a shrew, and she immediately flew to Gustavus, whom she had bolted in, and by means of a back passage, conducted him in a moment to the bank of the lake, where the fishers' boats lay, and, giving him a direction to an honest curate across the lake, committed him to Providence.

Wit and Humor in the Bible.

The Rev. G. B. Wilcox, writing in the Independent, begins a dissertation on the "Wit and Humor of the Bible" thus:

"Shocking!" many a good old saint will cry, at the very thought of it. "The Bible a jest book? What godless folly shall we have up next?" No, the

The Election in Columbia County.

With the official returns of the election in this county before us, we are enabled to speak with precision as to details and to measure the influence of both general and special causes upon the result.

Upon the whole the county vote proves the integrity of our population; its capacity to resist corrupt influence and its firm devotion to principle in times of temptation and peril. The few treacherous and corrupt men who were subsidized in this county by the Harrisburg Ring, and who understook the performance of evil work for their employers, were unable to fulfil their results to any considerable extent; they were met at every point and baffled in their unannounced object of reducing the Democratic majority of former years. It was confidently asserted abroad that our majority was to be cut down to 1200 by reason of disaffection in our own ranks and of active work by the opposition; but the result proves that the firmness of our people was underrated and their temper misjudged.

In only three election districts out of twenty seven, was there any material effect produced by the extraordinary efforts of the opposition, while in a great part of the remaining twenty four there was a positive increase of our party strength. We shall now proceed to examine the vote of each district, starting in the south and ending out the causes of the result.

Having the majority of 22 for Auditor General and a majority of the Supreme Court ticket, we maintain the position of the Democratic corner all elections, the Democratic majority for Seymour for President in 1868 being 12 and for Packer for Governor in 1869 being 18. But our returns this year were below what they should have been, and below what they might have been made with proper effort. The town was not thoroughly canvassed on our side and our vote was not full, while the opposite party brought out their whole strength. Besides, there was a little of treachery practiced against us to which we shall have occasion again to refer. Making due allowance however for the operation of these causes the vote of Bloomsburg was satisfactory as a test of party strength, and especially when we remember that not many years since majorities here running from 75 to 90 were regularly given against us.

As compared with the fine majorities given by them for Packer for Governor in 1869, the following districts have increased their majorities on Governor the present year, to wit:—Benton, 14; Bloomsburg, 7; Centralia, 2; North Conyngham, 14; Fishingcreek, 31; Greenwood, 20; Montour, 25; Pine, 25; Scott, 11; and Sugarloaf, 14; making in those ten districts a gain of 175, and this gain is naturally accounted for by the fact that these districts have a nett increase of 185 on their total vote. Their vote was full and therefore their majorities were increased.

On the other hand, in Beaver, Briarcreek, Centre, Franklin, Hemlock, Jackson, Madison, Orange and Roaringcreek, where majorities have remained stationary, or have slightly fallen off, the total vote has not increased, and in most of them is less than it was in 1869. The voting in all those townships was very good, but upon a full vote it would have been still better.

A slight increase of vote in Mifflin and Mount Pleasant did not increase their majorities (which, however, were good ones), while in Main and Locust majorities fell off upon an increased vote—nine in the former and thirteen in the latter upon an increased vote of twenty-eight. But perturbations of this kind in returns are to be expected, and as to none of these twenty-four districts already mentioned, are there grounds for regrets or for complaint. They all gave admirable votes to the cause of reform, and bravely resisted the sinister influences brought to bear upon them.

We come lastly to the three districts (the only remaining ones) where we were struck by money and by corporate influence and suffered sensibly as a party in the returns. These are, South Conyngham, Berwick and Catawissa.

South Conyngham polled but 57 votes in 1869 and 66 in 1871. It now polls 100 votes and reports 36 as given for Hartranft, resulting in a democratic majority of but 28. But this is an impossible result in a fair poll of unbought voters in that district. But 8 votes were given there against Packer in 1869 and but 10 against McCandless in 1871. It may be safely assumed that more than half the Hartranft vote reported from that district is corrupt or fraudulent.

Berwick polled 201 votes for Governor in 1869. It now polls 323 for Governor, being an increase of 122. This new vote, (mostly from the shops or works of Jackson & Woodin, and mostly given to the Republicans), was foreseen and expected; but the treachery of about 25 voters upon the State ticket for Governor and Auditor General was not foreseen and must be attributed to corrupt influence. 81 votes were polled for the Democratic candidate for Governor and 85 for Hartley for Auditor General, while the Democratic nominees for Congressmen at Large received 106.

At Catawissa the railroad shops contributed their vote to Hartranft and a capricious vote to other candidates, and with this disturbing force two or three pretended Democrats co-operated; corrupt men whose political action is always at the command of the highest bidder. The following is the very remarkable run of votes for Democratic candidates at Catawissa, showing the interference of the Catawissa Railroad Company with the election, the corruption of the men above mentioned, and the complicity with the latter of the radical voters of the town:—Buckalew for Governor, 129; Hartley for Auditor General, 146; Thompson for Judge of the Supreme Court, 229; Democratic Candidates for Congressmen at large, 150; Rhodes for District Congressman, 136; Chalfant for Senator, 207, and Brockway for Representative, 150.

But, we repeat, upon a general inspection of all the district returns the effect produced by selling money and corporate influence in changing votes and affecting results in the county was inconsiderable. Independent of the new vote at Berwick, the number of voters debauched or improperly controlled was comparatively insignificant, and may be liberally estimated, all told, at 100 votes. This is but a small result for the money expended and the efforts put forth by the corruptionists in this county; and must discourage them in future efforts in the same direction for it is not to be expected that within many decades to come will there be at any time such an enormous election fund to draw upon as was this year at the command of the Cameron Ring and its agents and allies in the several counties of the Commonwealth. With decreased pecuniary means for polluting elections in future, they will read the returns of 1872 for Columbia county as a standing admonition against investing heavily here with any expectation of getting the value of their money returned to them in the form of corrupted votes.

Renew the Fight.

The smoke of the October battle has cleared away, and our wounded are being cared for. The deserters to the enemy have not been numerous, and like the traitor Arnold, are despised by those who profited by their treason.

But, though repulsed, we are not routed,—and are better prepared for the November fight than we were for that of October. Our opponents will need their negroes, repeaters, and funds in other States which vote the same day and there will not be such an incentive to bribe the voters or stuff the ballot boxes.

Pennsylvania can be carried for Greeley, and as honorable men we should stand by the Liberal Republicans, who gave us their full strength at the late election. It simply requires a little work on the part of each man to get out the full vote. At the election of the 8th, over 500 Democrats were at home in this County alone, showing an indifference that is unpardonable in a crisis like this.

Our friends must not be discouraged at our defeat in this State. We have carried Georgia and Indiana, with large gains in Ohio, and as is shown elsewhere have more than equal chance for success. Let us not throw down our arms in Pennsylvania whilst our brethren all over the Union are continuing the fight. If we cannot win, we can at least worry the enemy. If this has been a Bull Run to us, let us turn the tables and make Pennsylvania a Gettysburg for our opponents.

Away, then, with faint hearts. Our principles are as sound as ever and we must maintain them to the last. Go to work at once. ORGANIZE THOROUGHLY. Continue your meetings. In a word, let us teach our enemies that we have just begun to fight!

October 8th 1872.

The campaign just closed, ending with the election of John F. Hartranft as Governor of this Commonwealth, was in some respects of more importance than any ever held in the State. It was not merely a contest between two political parties for supremacy in the State Administration; it was a struggle between the people and the politicians of a corrupt organization. The great question at issue was not "Shall we have a Democratic ruler over us" but "Shall fraud and corruption in high places be overthrown." The answer is disheartening. It is shown beyond peradventure that the voice of the people which has been said to be "the voice of God" is not so powerful as the money and means of a few shrewd and unscrupulous political managers. The plot which opened with the nomination of candidates not acceptable to even the honest and thoughtful members of their own party, has culminated in the election of those candidates by bribery and frauds of a magnitude heretofore unknown in any Northern State. Money was spent lavishly, voters were purchased, inordinate registration was had, hordes of negroes and rowdies from adjoining states were sent into various districts to vote illegally and the end attained is like the means employed—disgraceful. The subject is one which demands more than a trifling expression of regret for defeat. The vital principle of a republican form of govern ment is destroyed if the money and influence of one man or set of men can absolutely control the ballot box. The same means which created a majority of more than 20,000 for John F. Hartranft in the city of Philadelphia may create a yet larger in years to come. The same unblushing effrontery which made a registration of more than 162,000 in that city, an increase of 41,000 over that of last year, may effect a greater increase at the next election. The same system which transformed the police into aids and guides to New York and New Jersey rowdies in repeating, and stayed the hand of justice from punishing the crimes, may be and will be repeated. Where is this all to end? An election in Pennsylvania, taking this one as a sample, is a mockery. It were as well that none were held. If the people are so corrupt as to be bought and sold like sheep in the shambles, or are so indifferent as to look unmoved upon political debauchery, then are we come indeed to deplorable straits. When dishonest and venal politicians exist they may be swept away by popular indignation but when the people themselves are depraved where are we to look?

The lesson of this October election is written in bold characters and easily to be read. It is this; that no honest man, no opponent of the present ruling powers in the State, can be elected except by a majority so overwhelming as to render hopeless the attempt to nullify it by fraudulent counting or ballot box stuffing. It is a terrible thing to contemplate but it is, nevertheless, true. Unless strong, earnest, vigorous resistance is offered by the people themselves, and the present condition of affairs changed, an election in this State is "but sound and fury signifying nothing."

Old Simon Cameron is not content with the rascally election in Pennsylvania, but is on the war path demanding the scalps of his enemies. Cameron wishes to have every Republican who opposed Hartranft, i. e. himself, kicked out of the party. He is especially vicious on Forney and has demanded of Grant that all public patronage shall be taken from him. It is reported that Grant refused to interfere, but as Grant is entirely under the control of such men as Cameron it is highly probable that Simon will have his way.

The rolling mill and buildings of the Cambria Iron Works, at Johnstown, Pa., were mostly destroyed by fire on Saturday night. The steel works, shop and furnaces were uninjured. The light machinery in the burned shops was destroyed, but the heavy machinery suffered little damage. The loss is estimated at $400,000. Several firemen were injured, but not fatally. The workmen have volunteered to contribute part of their pay to assist in rebuilding the works, and such arrangements will be made that it is thought the delay caused by the fire will not last more than two weeks.

At Lancaster on Monday, complaint was made before Alderman Amweg by Reindardt Reiner, election judge of the Eighth Ward of Lancaster, against Dr. H. E. Muhlenberg, for offering said election judge $200 if he would "stuff" the ballot box to reduce Buckalew's majority to 100 in said ward. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Muhlenberg. Dr. Muhlenburg is a United States Revenue Collector, and a brother-in-law of Senator Cameron.

Louisville, Ky., is all excitement over the falling of a "shell" of a building by which five persons were killed. A strong determination to hold the responsible party to a strict account for the disaster prevails, and already the contractor and the architect have been arrested and held to answer "the charge of murder."

At Harrisburg, Monday, Emmanuel Shaffner, on trial for the murder of his two wives and John Sharlock, by poisoning, pleading guilty of murder in the second degree, and was sentenced to the Eastern Penitentiary for thirty-six years.

Two shock of earthquake, with oscillations from east to west, lasting several seconds, were felt in San Francisco, at fifteen minutes past four o'clock on Saturday morning. No damage was done.

The President has issued a proclamation recommending the observance of Thursday, November 28th, as a day of National Thanksgiving.

Sarah F. Willis, wife of James Parton, and widely known as "Fanny Fern," died on Thursday in New York.

Indiana gives Hendricks, the Democratic candidate for Governor 950 majority. Part of the Democratic State ticket is also elected.

Monday's new-papers gave accounts of fires the losses by which aggregate 1,100,000.

Prompted by a commendable desire to tell its readers how Simon Cameron carried Pennsylvania for Grant, The Courier-Journal furnishes the following: "It is difficult to say just what elected Hartranft. The prevailing opinion, however, seems to be that he got in through a combination of repeating, expenditures, pure cussedness and the influence of the Pittsburgh papers."

TO INVESTORS.

To those who have funds to invest in large or small amounts, or who wish to increase their income from means already invested in other less profitable securities, we recommend, after full investigation, the Seven-Thirty Gold Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company,—Bearing seven and three-tenths per cent. gold interest (equal now to 8⅞ currency,) and sold at par, they yield an income considerably more than one-third greater than U. S. 5-20's. They are Coupon and Registered, the lowest denomination being $100, the highest $10,000.

Nearly one-third of the Main Line of the Road will be completed and in operation with a large business the present season. All the property and rights of the Company, including a most valuable Land Grant, averaging about 23,000 acres per mile of road are pledged as security for the first mortgage bonds now offered.

All marketable stocks and bonds are received in exchange at current prices. Descriptive pamphlets and maps, showing Route of road, Connections, Tributary Country, &c., will be furnished on application.

WANTED.—A Grant man who can look an honest man squarely in the face and say Hartranft's majority of 30,000 is an honest one.

WE were favored with a genuine thunder storm on Sunday night last.

Shoemaker, Rep., is elected to Congress from the Twelfth Pennsylvania District, by 750 majority. Luzerne county, official, given Buckalew 2092 majority.

GENERAL CHARLES F. WELLS, of Troy, Bradford county, Pa., a citizen of great energy and public spirit, died at Auburn, N. Y., on Friday last.

WE call attention to the very full and complete official table, both county and State printed on our second page.

THE Reading R. R. has leased the Catawissa R. R. for a term of 999 years, and the lease has been recorded in the office of the Recorder of this county.

THE latest novelty in the form of ornament for ladies is composed of bright colored satin ribbon in the form of a bow and knot, and called "the Lucca."

LYCOMING county gives Mr. Buckalew 417 majority, Hartranft 373, Thompson for Supreme Judge 417, Shyrewood for Congress 232, and Chalfant for Senator 376.

LAST week we reflected upon a telegraph operator of the Catawissa R. R. for revealing the contents of a private dispatch. The leak was elsewhere, and we were misinformed. We desire to do no injustice to no man.

COLD weather is upon us at last. The first killing frost of the season in Maine occurred on Friday night last. Ice was formed in some places. We have not heard of any ice being formed in this County but frosts have been frequent of late.

A MEETING of the Republicans of this town was held on Tuesday night last, to take measures to hold a mass meeting in celebration of Hartranft's counting-in. The better sense of a few respectable Republicans prevailed, however, and the matter was voted down.

THE Republicans of this town and county, although without a candidate of their own for President Judge, were too narrow minded and blinded by prejudice to vote for Judge Elwell.—There is a better class in Sullivan county, as there, out of a total vote of 1175, Judge Elwell received 1157 votes.

WEED OUT.—He is a poor agriculturist who permits noxious weeds to injure his crops,—and it is a sickly political party that will not throw off the rotten and corrupt men that hang to its skirts. Weed such men out. They only cling to us to betray the organization, and the sooner we are rid of them the better. The opposition influence all such men, and they should go to their masters.

HORACE H. FITCH, baggage agent of the P. & E. R. R., at Lock Haven, was found on Monday morning in the baggage room in a dying condition, his throat having been cut and nine severe wounds on his head, inflicted with a hatchet. It is thought that the murder was done by a suspicious character who was seen prowling around the place and whose object was the plunder of the baggage.

WE shall present in our next number the evidence which has appeared, showing the corruption and fraud practiced by the Cameron Ring in the State, (and particularly in Philadelphia), at the recent election. The facts are astounding, and more than justify all the charges heretofore made against the ring of corrupt intention and foul action in the election.

BECKLEY'S last exploit before the election was the issuing of a lying circular, signed by himself, to the effect that money had been sent into this county for the use of the Democracy and to be spent in corrupting votes. It is hardly necessary to deny this, but we take advantage of the occasion to state positively, that not a dollar was sent into this county by the State Committee or any one else, and that the only money used by Democrats in this election was in the hands of a few men false to their party, who exerted themselves against Mr. Buckalew and spent the money to that end.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9—2 p. m..
Hartranft's majority in the State is over thirty thousand. We gain Blery, Ross, Baker, Cessna, Taylor, Richmond, Moore, and probably lose Shoemaker, for congress. We have the Senate sure seventeen to sixteen—and eighteen to fifteen, if Malacy is elected in the Clarion district. The House stands, probably, sixty to forty. The Republicans have also five majority in the Constitutional Convention, as they carry the four Senatorial districts here.

RUSSEL ERRETT.

An Iowa watermellon is said to have contained a horse-shoe and a mule's ear.

We clip the above important item from the Montour American. It was evidently written by the editor under strong cerebral excitement, but if it be true that in addition to such men as Hartranft, Allen and Cessna, the Republican party of this State propose electing to important offices, "Iowa watermellons" and such mellions, too, as contain "horse shoes and mule's ears," then have we reached a degree of political degradation which is extremely painful to contemplate. We hope the statement may prove untrue. Such candidates should be run by the temperance party if at all.

BECKLEY'S preposterous hand-bill circulated on the eve of the election, charging Democrats with intending to practice corruption at the election, was received everywhere with quiet contempt. But why did he issue it? Evidently, to call off attention from radical rascalities in the county, and allow their cheating and money operations with sore-heads to pass unnoticed.

PEOPLE who are unable to go to sleep at night will be glad to know that an instrument, constructed by an ingenious German, when placed under a mattrass, is calculated, by soothing strains, to persuade the most troublesome conscience into sweet oblivion and gentle slumber. It also will, at a set time, awaken the happy sleeper by a lively selection from one of Offenbach's operas.

THERE was a pole raising at Afton on Saturday afternoon last at which there was a large attendance. A meeting was organized by the election of Joseph Pohe as President; Isaac Hess and H. D. Knorr as Vice Presidents and Peter Eat as Secretary. Captain Brockway was called upon and made an earnest speech in advocacy of Greeley and Brown. He urged his hearers to renewed efforts for the coming election in November, undismayed by the results of the one just held. The meeting was in all respects a success.

IT isn't an agreeable thing to mention, but those who are gathering Autumnal leaves for preservation must be careful. The correspondent of a Providence newspaper specially warns collectors against poison ivy, the bright colors of which render it very attractive. The remedies for poisoning by this leaf are acetate of copper and corrosive sublimate—two beautifully pleasant things to use. Look out also for poison sumac or poison dogwood, which is dangerously attractive. It may be distinguished from the common sumac by its light ash gray stems, the harmless kind presenting an iron brown.

WE have received the following notice from the Philadelphia office of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association, with a request signed, Mary Grew, for its publication.

We cheerfully comply with the request if only to show that we are not lacking in that "spirit of liberality," in which the writer so confidently trusts.

If there are any of our lady readers who care to have anything to do with politics, after contemplating the result of last week's election in this state, they had best attend to the notice.

THE friends of Woman Suffrage throughout the State are requested to send their names with post office addresses to the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association. Those wishing documents or specimen copies of the Woman's Journal, will be supplied.

GAMBLING was carried on at the late Fair with perfect audacity, no attempt being made at concealment. The tables were spread in full sight of the people with the implements and even the money displayed. Two of the blacklegs were arrested and fined $20 and costs. We commend to the attention of the Town Council the expediency of arresting and fining these fellows whenever found, as by so doing the public treasury will be benefited and the people greatly rejoiced.

THE TABLES TURNED: On Tuesday last the court delivered an opinion upon the question of costs in the contested election case of James Dennis, Councilman of Bloomsburg, upon which there has been so much silly blowing in the columns of the Republican. The counsel for Dennis filed a swingeing bill of costs for attendance of unnecessary witnesses and subpoenaing them and insisted that the citizens who filed the petition contesting Dennis's election should pay it. But the court held, that there was no issue formed by answer when the witnesses were subpoenaed and attended; that it was against the practice of the courts to hear witnesses at all in such cases (as their testimony when required is to be taken before an examiner); and that the testimony proposed was wholly irrelevant to the question before the court. The witnesses are of course entitled to their pay, but they must be paid by the party who subpoenaed them. Now we think this is a hard case upon poor Dennis, and that it is all wrong that he should be made to pay for the blunder of his lawyer who should pay that bill himself.

IF there be one thing which more than another strikes us as ludicrous in the extreme, it is the immense amount of military life and vigor displayed by certain gentlemen attached to our State militia organization, who never had any difficulty in restraining their natural impetuosity during the war and who never distinguished themselves in any manner in advanced positions—towards the enemy. It is bewildering to contemplate the warlike aspect of these militia heroes; to scan furtively the features on which the God of War has laid his bloody hand to mark them for his own; to behold that indescribable gait, half swagger and half stride, which so eminently pertain to those skilled in battle, but it is yet more bewildering to ascertain that none of these doughty warriors did more than draw their pay—and talk, after they got home. Our militia laws have no such defenders as these; our parades no more gallant figures. Rash is the plain civilian who inadvertently drops a remark unflattering to the bold militia. He is a fortunate man if he escapes a fluent and withering display of eloquence from one of these

> Who never set a squadron in the field
> Nor the division of a battle knew
> More than a spinster.

They are terrible fellows—to their friends. To their enemies they are—nothing.

MAN MISSING.—We learn from the Gazette that Martin Loftus, a fireman at No. 8 Breaker, of the Pennsylvania Coal Company's works, left home four weeks ago last Monday, and has not been heard of since. He was forty-six years old, five feet six inches in height, light complexion, gray eyes, face slightly pock marked, dark hair, turning gray. Any information in regard to him will be thankfully received by John Perkins, or by Mary Loftus, of Pittston, Pa. The press generally is requested to copy.

OUR COUNTY FAIR.—The usual crowd gathered here last week, and the receipts were about $2800. The management was excellent, and no accidents occurred. So far as display is concerned it was a miserable farce. With two or three exceptions the articles were not worth looking at. In a large agricultural County like ours there is no excuse for not having a grand display; but two causes operate against it. First, there are no suitable buildings to provide against the weather or against theft. Secondly, the premiums are so ridiculously small that they do not pay the cost of moving articles to and from the grounds. Less money on horse-jockeys, and more to the farmers and mechanics would be better policy. And now about the funds of the Association. We are told that $1,000 have been cleared. Messrs Managers, what will you do with it? What has been done with the profits of previous years. They have not been put on the grounds for the fence is old and ricketty, and the sheds would disgrace a barn yard. We are informed that vouchers are not kept for moneys expended. Is this so? It is about time the public got some insight into the management of the finances, and learn what becomes of the money; and we agree to publish gratuitously a detailed statement if furnished us. We do not blame our present officers. Some of them we know have been overruled on questions of management, and all are following the precedents of former years. Let us have light, and reform about this matter.

Address to the People of Pennsylvania.

The following address has been issued by the chairmen of the Democratic and Liberal State committees:

To the People of Pennsylvania:

PHILADELPHIA, October 12, 1872.

We have lost a battle, but the field should not be surrendered. Fraud has held high carnival in Philadelphia, and paralyzed our ranks throughout the State; but the insolent triumph should renew every friend of regenerated government to increased exertions. The official vote declared in Philadelphia has not even the semblance of correctness. The officers charged with the returns of the meeting of the Return Judges were not sworn. The returns were read off without opportunity for examination. The computation of the vote was not made out, and the papers were not subsequently taken to the office where the law required they should be, but elsewhere, for final manipulation. By this process, practiced in open defiance of law and public decency, the candidate on the State ticket who received the lowest number of votes is returned as having a larger vote than his associates. We had no power to purge the the fraudulent registration of this city—no authority to restrain illegal voters—and now have no tribunal adequate to the punishment of election officers and others who conspired to pollute the ballot box. Yet the principles involved in this contest will not perish by a temporary defeat in Pennsylvania, whether honest or fraudulent. The nation is the battle ground of reform, and even without Pennsylvania right may achieve victory in November. Pennsylvania may not be able to give her electoral vote to vindicate self-government, but she must not be voiceless in the struggle. Her people must manfully stand to their principles and organization. The necessity for the exercise of the independent power of the people in this State is made doubly imperative by the means employed to defeat us on Tuesday last, and he is unworthy of the blessings of liberty who would withhold his every effort because local or temporary defeat is probable. This battle of reform will be won. It may not be this year, but surely in the near future. It appeals to every friend of national peace and purity, to every votary of State and universal regeneration, and to every citizen who values the sanctity of the elective franchise. There must be no faltering in the ranks. Let the friends of Horace Greeley and the principles he represents everywhere perfect their organization at once. We can deserve victory in Pennsylvania, and that may save the nation. It will certainly save our cause from dishonor and assure us early triumph.

SAMUEL J. RANDALL,
Chairman Democratic State Committee.
A. K. MCCLURE,
Chairman Liberal Rep. State Com.

William H. Seward, who had been twice Governor of New York, twice U. S. Senator from that State, and Secretary of State under Presidents Lincoln and Johnson, died on Thursday October 10th, at Auburn N. Y. aged 71 years.

He will be longer remembered for his "little bell" which sent numbers of his fellow citizens to prison than for any great good he ever rendered his country.

BRINGING THE MATTER HOME.—At Frear's Hall, Watkins, N. Y., a few days since, General George J. Magee was called on to make a Greeley speach. During the course of his remarks General Magee said: "At Baltimore, when Greeley was nominated, I saw 'Brick' Pomeroy. He called me out one side from the crowd and said that he should support the candidate who paid the most money for Pomeroy's Democrat, and should not support Greeley because Grant would give the most. This 'Brick' Pomeroy told me himself in Baltimore!"

Church Dedication.

The new M. E. Church, near Numedia, known as the "Trinity Chapel," will be dedicated (D. V.) Sunday Oct. 28th inst. It is also quarterly meeting occasion of the Elysburg charge, I. Fesron Brown, pastor. The P. E. of the Danville District, Rev. S. Barnes will be present, also, Rev. A. W. Guyer, of Ashland. Rev. King of Catawissa, and other ministers are expected to be present. Methodists, and all friendly to church enterprise generally are invited to be present on this occasion. The "Chapel" is a fine one, the best I think in the charge, and in a fine region of County. A pleasant and profitable time is expected.

MARRIAGES.

WISE—MILLER.—On the 11th inst., by Rev. T. F. Hoffmeier, Mr. Joseph H. Wise of Madison twp., to Miss Emma E. Miller of Hemlock twp., this county.

WELLIVER—COTNER.—October 9th, at the residence of Dr. Titus, Swisher, of Jerseytown, by the Rev. H. C. Munro, Mr. Uriah Wellivr of Eyer's Grove, and Miss Kate M. Cotner of Jerseytown.

DEATHS.

HOLBREN.—At White Hall, October 11th., Miss Susan J. Holdren, aged 11 years, 9 months and 8 days.

HESS.—Laura E. Hess, twin infant daughter of Milton E. and Harriet Hess, died in Huntington, Luzerne Co., Pa., Oct. 3d, 1872. Age, 11 months, and 26 days. She was a great sufferer.

LADIES' gum foot holds for sale at I. W. Hartman's.

E. Jacoby has opened his new "Oyster Bay" in Shive's Block two doors below Iron Street, where he will sell oysters by the quart, can, tub; shell oyster's by the barrel or hundred. He is also in receipt of fresh fish daily, from the Lakes and Bay. A share of the public patronage solicited.

I. W. Hartman's store during the Fair was crowded from early morn to late at night, cause—his being the cheapest store in all the county.

American Belles.

America is justly proud of her beautiful ladies, but how many mar their beauty, and lose their health and youth become prematurely old in appearance, by neglecting to take proper care of their teeth. There can be no excuse for this, as SOZODONT, pronounced by all worthy a place between the sweetest lips, can now be had in all civilized countries.

Spalding's Glue, useful and always ready.

MRS. Jones, do you know that I. W. Hartman sells the best shilling muslin in the county?

Old Established Coal Yard.

Large stocks of all sizes constantly on hand. Strict personal attention given to the preparation of all our coal. Grain, Lumber and Slabs taken in exchange for coal. Coal delivered to any part of the town. Orders left at McKelvy Neal & Co's. store or at our office, will receive prompt attention. OFFICE & YARDS AT MCKELVY & NEAL'S FURNACE, EAST BLOOMSBURG. Your patronage respectfully solicited.

OLD THINGS HAVE PASSED AWAY.—This is at least true of the old method of treating the long abused and much abused human body. It is no longer considered wise to put a patient to the torture in order to cure him of a disease in which pain is already undermining the energies of his system. True science raises itself on the side of nature, and endeavors to assist her in her fight against disease. This is the province of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most approved tonic ever advertised in this country. It may be recommended as a fall medicine, par excellence; for it is in the fall that billiousness, dyspepsia and malarious fevers are especially prevalent. The frame, exhausted by the heats of summer, is relaxed and feeble at its close, and requires, as may say demands, artificial assistance. Afford it such assistance in occasional doses of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and the evils referred to may be escaped. Throughout the far West, and on the steaming shores of the Southern rivers, all the varieties of periodical fever are probably rife to-day. Had a course of Hostetter's Bitters been commenced by the sufferers a month ago, &c., before the unhealthy season set in, seven-eights of them would in all probability be in their usual health at the present time. So much for not keeping in the house and using daily, the best safeguard against epidemic and epidemic fevers.

As flocks of impostors and imitators are trying to follow in the wake of the great American remedy, therefore be sure that the article you buy is genuine and verified by the proper trademarks. The genuine can only be obtained in bottles. Beware of the spurious bitters sold by the gallon or in keg.
Oct. 11th.—4w.

CLAP-TRAP AND CANT.—Invalid reader, if you are unwise enough to put yourself outside of any of the meek bones guaranteed to contain "no diffusive stimulant," you will inevitably come to grief. Ask your physician if any liquor preparation, destitute of stimulating properties, is worthy of the name of a tonic. He will tell you no. Shun all such nauseous catchpennies,—Plantation Bitters, the most wholesome invigorant in the world, owes the rapidity with which it relieves the disordered stomach and the shattered nerves to the diffusive agent which conveys its sanitary ingredients to the seat of the complaint. The agent is the spirit of the sugar cane, the most nutritious and agreeable of all the varieties of alcohol. The medicinal ingredients of the Bitters, valuable as they are, would be comparatively useless without this distributive basis. They would ferment and sour. Beware, as you hope for health, of the horrible compounds of refuse drugs in a state of fermentation which humbugs are endeavoring to foist upon the public as medicines.

THE HUMAN ROOF AND ITS THATCHING.—If the man deserves well of his country who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, surely he who produces a glorious crop of hair on a comparatively barren scalp deserves the hearty thanks of the outraged party.—All honor, therefore, to Professor E. T. Lyon, for, unquestionably, his renowned Kathairon accomplishes this object. Gentlemen whose whiskers are shy of making their appearance in force, or fibers of those moustaches discloses those "magnificent distances" for which Washington City was once so famous, will find this Hair Preserver the most wonderful encourager of fibrous developement that has ever yet been invented. Both sexes are advised to use it, as, by all odds, it is the best article for improving the growth and beauty of the hair, keeping it free from scurf and dandruff, preventing it from becoming harsh dry and grey—giving it a rich gloss and endowing it with flexibility—that Toilet Chemistry has ever evolved from the vegetable kingdom.

Important Testimony!

The following letters are among the many we are constantly receiving from persons who have been cured by

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup,
Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic,
AND
Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Pennsgrove, Salem County, New Jersey.
FEBRUARY 27, 1872.

Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, N. E. corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia.

Respected Sir—I take pleasure in adding my testimony to that of the many others who have been cured by the efficacy of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.

Consumption has been hereditary with my family, most of its members having died of it at early ages. My mother and three brothers died at the age of 31, one brother at 27, and my sister at 13.

I was, when about 31 years, seized with liver complaint, which rapidly developed into Pulmonary Consumption. I was compelled to relinquish my employment (that of a blacksmith.)

I consulted skillful and eminent physicians, and tried many patent nostrums, but without success, so that my friends were sure that there was no hope of my recovery, for I was reduced from 140 pounds to 104, and was not able to do anything without assistance.

By what I now look upon as a Providential interposition, I was induced to try your remedies, and place myself under your treatment, and so rapid and thorough was my recovery, that it seemed as though some superhuman power was at work, and to-day I am as well as at any time during my life. I weigh 152 pounds, am 39 years old, and for some time have been regularly attending to my business, bidding fair to live to a good old age.

I am thankful to you beyond expression for having placed me in a position wherein I am a benefit instead of a burden to my family.

Your Mandrake Pills are the only medicine I ever use now. I think they are the best in the world.

I can refer you to hundreds of my neighbors who will verify all I have written, and any information any of my fellow citizens may desire will be freely and gladly given, upon receipt of stamp, by Yours, etc.,
JOHN C. HEWITT.

Key West, Fla., Feb. 19, 1872.

Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, N. E. cor. Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia.

Dear Sir—Please forward, per first steamer, six bottles Sea Weed Tonic and twelve bottles Pulmonic Syrup.

Your medicines are o such value that I cannot be without them in my household, and in fact no family should be without them.

I have given them a fair test, and openly declare them to be even better than you claim.

Very respectfully yours, &c.
W. A. WHITEHURST.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4, 1872.

Dr. J. H. SCHENCK,

Respected Sir—I take pleasure in awarding to you this certificate of the wonderful cure your Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic produced. My throat and bronchial tubes were so highly inflamed that it was almost impossible for me to swallow my food.

I ran on a visit to my uncle, Mr. Charles Johnson, No. 912 Federal street, who says your medicines raised him from almost death after all other means had failed, and he having, therefore, full confidence in the virtue of your remedies, strongly recommended me to try them. I did so, and in one week from the time I commenced taking them my throat underwent a very great change for the better, so that I could eat my meals without any difficulty. I can hardly scarcely find words to express my gratitude for the early relief your invaluable medicines produced upon me, and I deem it but an act of gratitude to give you the acknowledgement of my appreciation. Yours respectfully,
RACHEL M. JACOBS,
No. 406 West Thirty-third street, New York.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SEA WEED TONIC,
and MANDRAKE PILLS.

These are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption. Dr. Schenck has been in constant practice over thirty years continually examining lungs, and knows his medicines, if properly taken, will cure Consumption. His Mandrake Pills cleanse the liver and stomach; his Sea Weed Tonic dissolves the food, stimulates the coating of the stomach, and makes it digest. His Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter, and nature throws it off without any exertion.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic, $1.25 per bottle, or $7.00 per half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents per box.

It is not a physic which may give temporary relief to the sufferer for the first few doses, but which, from continued use breeds fifty hundred diseases to aid in weakening the invalid, nor is it a doctored liquor, which, under the popular name of "Bitters" is so extensively palmed off on the public as sovereign remedies, but it is a most powerful Tonic and alterative, pronounced so by the leading medical authorities of London and Paris, and has been long used by the regular physicians of other countries with wonderful remedial results.

Dr. Wells' Extract of Jurubeba retains all the medicinal virtues peculiar to the plant and must be taken as a permanent curative agent.

Is there want of action in your Liver & Spleen? Unless relieved at once, the blood becomes impure by deleterious secretions, producing scrofulous or skin diseases, Blotches, Felons, Pustules, Canker, Pimples, &c., &.

Take Jurubeba to cleanse, purify and restore the vitiated blood to healthy action.

Have you a Dyspeptic Stomach? Unless digestion is promptly aided the system is debilitated with loss of vital force, poverty of the Blood, Dropsical Tendency, General Weakness or Lassitude.

Take it to assist Digestion without reaction, it will impart youthful vigor to the weary sufferer.

Have you weakness of the intestines? You are in danger of Chronic Diarrhœa or the dreadful Inflammation of the Bowels.

Take it to allay irritation and ward off tendency to inflammation.

Have you weakness of the Uterus or Urinary Organs? You must procure instant relief or you are liable to suffering worse than death.

Take it to strengthen organic weakness of life becomes a burden.

Finally it should be frequently taken to keep the system in perfect health or you are otherwise in great danger of malarial, miasmatic or contagious diseases.

About two-thirds of this tract is cleared and in a high state of cultivation, a large part of it being river bottom, and the balance is well timbered with oak, chestnut, Pine &c., and to be sold subject to the dower secured upon the premises, the interest payable to the widow of John Reitz, deceased, and the principal upon her death to the heirs of said John Reitz, deceased. Amount of principal, $1744.00.

Good Cattle on Small Farms.

The question whether small farmers can afford to keep through bred stock is being discussed in the National Live Stock Journal. A "Drover" of the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, in a communication to that paper, gives it as his opinion that they can afford to keep only good stock. He does not advise such farmers to buy thoroughbred cows and attempt to raise full bloods for beef; but to get a good Shorthorn bull, and the best native cows they can obtain. The farmer can make steers of the bull calves, and sell them for beef, and the best of the females he can reserve for breeding purposes; and as they become of sufficient age, he can work off the old cows to make room for the grade heifers, and their calves he can raise to take their places, and so on, always using a thoroughbred bull, and females as near thoroughbred as he can get them, and in a few years he will have a herd of cows which for beef purposes will possess all the excellencies of the thoroughbred. He says:

I handle a good deal of stock, and my business takes me into different parts of the country, and in contact with farmers all the time, and I am astonished at the lack of correct information on the advantage of good stock which prevails among well to do farmers, who, on all other subjects are well informed and wide awake. I have bred cattle and grazed them, though, in breeding, I never got so far along as to make a special business of raising thoroughbreds to others for breeding purposes. But when it comes to a matter of cattle for beef, I think I know my business, and what I am talking about. When I was grazing I would give more per pound for a good grade Shorthorn steer or calf than for a common one (and I noticed they always weighed more, too, at the same age,) because I could fit them for market earlier, because I could put more pounds of beef to an acre of pasturage, and because I could always sell it for more per pound.

Now, as a cattle buyer, I will give more for the same class of stock, than I will for common stock, because I can always find a ready market for it, and realize the best prices, and because there is less risk in it. When the market is overstocked; when buyers from the East are few, and holding off, prices drooping and drovers blue, I notice it is always the inferior and common stock which feels the depression most, and to the greatest extent. I have often noticed, that when I had several lots of good common beeves in the market, I had to accept a very marked concession in the prices, in order to secure a customer, while around a lot of high grades in an adjoining pen, the buyers would swarm in troops, each one eager and anxious to buy at full rates. And when prices have dropped, I have noticed that a cent on common stock was not followed by more than half a cent on high grades, and when prices advance, the best stock always feels the advance the earliest. For this reason, I prefer to handle this kind of stock to common stock, and always expect to pay more per pound for it, and can make money by doing it. It is with this, as with everything else, there is always a strong healthy demand, more buyers than sellers, for a choice article than for common one, and the farmer will make the most money who endeavors to supply the best.

Another thing I have noticed, and I have handled a great many cattle, and that is, that high grades become good mature beeves, and can command full prices in market at an earlier age, than common bullocks, and when I was running a farm, I considered this a great advantage. There is no question about their maturing earlier, about their fattening more readily, and about their selling for a higher price.

FEEDING TURKEYS.—The Poultry World, in an article on turkeys, has this in relation to feeding:

"The practice of most farmers who raise turkeys is not to feed them at all after the young birds are six or eight weeks old. They are driven off to the pasture or woods early in the morning, and get their living where they can find it. Their chief food is grasshoppers and other insects, and they do the pastures and meadows a great service in keeping under these destructive creatures. This may be well enough where insects and mast are plenty, but upon many farms the range of woodland is exceedingly limited, and the growth of the birds will not be satisfactory without food from the corn crib. They should come to the roost every night with full crops, and if on examination this is not found to be the case, they should be regularly fed once a day at least. There is no danger in fattening a young turkey on a good range in six months. With first class stock, full feed will make a difference of four or five pounds in the weight of the birds at Thanksgiving. Turkeys like a variety of food, though they do very well upon corn, which they never refuse while in health. They are very fond of a mash of boiled potatoes and Indian meal, and thrive admirably upon it. Whatever the provender, it should be fed regularly, and the birds kept thriving from the shell to the butcher's block."

THE PARTRIDGE THE FARMER'S FRIEND.—At a meeting of horticulturists in Illinois, strong ground was taken against the destruction of these birds. To show how useful this bird is, it was stated that a flock of partridges were seen running along the rows of corn just sprouting and seeing them engaged in something which was believed to be pulling up the young plants, one of them was killed and its "crop" examined, which was found to contain a cutworm and twenty-one striped bugs. Another member related that he had adopted measures to protect the bird, and that they had become so numerous and so tame that hundreds of them, after snow falls, could be seen in his barn yard with his fowls. His wheat crops were usually abundant, while in many other places not far off the chinch bug and other insects had destroyed half the crop.

FEEDING HOGS.—A correspondent of the Iowa Homestead affirms that various experiments have proved the fact that corn fed to hogs bas produced all the way from two to twenty pounds gain a bushel, according to the different modes of preparing feed, and the age, breed, or condition of hogs fed. He is satisfied that every one-half of all the hogs fed in Iowa, do not produce over five pounds gross weight for each bushel of corn fed, which, counting hogs at $3 per 100 pounds, gives 15 cents per bushel for corn.

Young Folks.

The Winged Travelers

BY HELEN SPANNARD.

The Song-thrushes had company, their Uncle and Aunt Oliveback from the north, had called expressly to inform them that to-morrow their cousins Tawny-thrush would pass on their way southward, and hoped that they would join their party.

"Of course, we will," said Mrs. Song-thrush decidedly, and that settled the matter.

So, early next morning they were all in a great twitter of preparation. Papa Songthrush and the young sons, Tom and Dick were each arrayed in their fine, red coats, immaculate white shirt bosoms, and black ties waving off nattily to the right and left. Mrs. Song-thrush's suit of dark, rich, brown, was quietly elegant, and giving the whole of her mind to it, she ruffled it daintily here, and shook it out there. But her husband, hopping quietly away, perched himself mournfully on the edge of their deserted nest.

"We have been so happy here," he murmured, brushing away a tear with his claw.

"That we have, dear," chirped his wife cheerily; she had just arranged the last feather to her satisfaction and that of Aunt Oliveback, who pronounced her costume perfect. "That we have, dear; but there's another summer coming, you know, and we shall return."

"But why go away at all?" piped in young Tom, the early bird of the family, who, with his mouth full of some delicious tit-bit, was enjoying himself.

"For two reasons, my son," answered mamma Song-thrush, majestically. "First, because everybody that is anybody, goes north in the summer and south in the winter. Second, because life here, after a little while, would be really dreadful. It all looks very pleasnow, with the bright sunlight and the gay leaves, but the cold, last night, gave me a chill, and that's nothing to what comes by and by. Poor Mrs. Meadow-lark says, and she ought to know, for she foolishly wintered over here one season, that with the bare trees, and snow and ice, and only a crumb now and then, its terrible!"

Just as Mrs. Song-thrush concluded these remarks in a serious tone, there was a sound as of muffled thunder, and in an instant the sky above their heads was darkened suddenly, as a crowd of pigeons, numbering thousands, flew swiftly by. The dense mass presented a most beautiful appearance—now a glistening azure field, when their backs were in view, and by a sudden simultaneous change, a canopy of rich, dark purple.

"What an army!" cried Dick Song-thrush.

"True," answered his mother, "but we shall be much more select."

All at once the pigeons rose high in the air, and wheeling and twisting, darted forward with increased velocity.

"A hawk! a hawk is after them!" cried Tom Song-thrush, but the immediate arrival of over sixty of the looked-for cousins, put everything else out of mind.

"How do you do! and how do you do! twit, twit, twee," sounded the thrushes, big and little, as they pressed forward eagerly.

"Good bye! good bye! good bye!" called out the Waxwings, Bobolinks and Chip-birds, who had come from swamp and thickets to bid their old friends adieu.

"We shall soon join you in the sunny south-land, but till then, once more, good bye."

"Au revoir," chirped Mrs. Song-thrush airily, as with a graceful motion she rose to join the travelers.

Reluctantly followed her, masters Tom and Dick, each with a grape plucked from a neighboring wild vine, and then after Aunt and Uncle Oliveback bringing up the rear, came the papa Thrush, but in mid air he poised himself, and turning, gazed once again at the desolate home nest, when suddenly his swelling heart found vent in a wondrous, sweet and flute-like song. Out rang the strains like a martial fife, then gently, tenderly melted into a low cadence, which lingered a brief moment, in the autumn sunshine, then was gone. This was the father bird's farewell to his own dear home.

"Take my place," urged the patriarch Thrush who led the van; but the modest Song-thrush retired to the rear where he could keep an eye on the antics of Tom and Dick. And so on they went, every bird in eager motion.

Now and then, through the day, there were fresh accessions to the company, while those in the rear were constantly flying over the heads of those in front, moving in this manner to give all an equal chance for their luncheon of insects and grain. Toward evening, descending nearer and nearer to earth, they sought the welcome shelter of the woods and grove, where with head tucked coshy under wing they rested secure.

Thus, moving southward by short flights and delayed journeys, lingering now and then perhaps whole days in a secluded grainfield, crossing broad rivers, which far below seemed a mere ribbon of silver, flying high above mountains and carefully avoiding the haunts of man, the travelers approached the smiling land of flowers, whose rich odors already floated them a greeting on the south wind. But though even now the air was scented with the perfume of magnolia blooms and orange blossoms, never should papa Songthrush see these flowers again, or revisit his northern home; for one morning when flying low, a cruel bullet sped in among the flock and wounded him. Painfully he toiled on for a moment, then his wings fluttered, drooped; he could not see Tom and Dick; a film was over his eyes, and with one heart-broken trill he fell, poor little fellow, dead. The birds all grieved for him, but their only safety was in flight, and with the rest were swept onward those who loved him best, the mamma Song-thrush, Tom and Dick. At last.

"The rice fields reaching wide were seen.
Along the borders of the sea," and tarrying momentarily among birds of splendid plumage and graceful flight they told, in one united burst of melody, the story of their aerial passage. Then, though fruits and berries tempted them to remain, the Thrush all hastened to the loved seclusion of the cypress swamps or murmuring streamlet, overshadowed by lofty vine-garland trees.

DOCTOR PIERCE'S

THROAT, LUNGS, LIVER & BLOOD

In the wonderful medicine to which the afflicted are above pointed for relief, the discoverer believes he has combined in harmony more of Nature's most powerful curative properties, which God has instilled into the vegetable kingdom for healing the sick, than were ever before combined in one medicine. The evidence of this fact is found in the great variety of most obstinate diseases which it has been found to conquer. In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mercurial Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all the numerous diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flushes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect cures, leaving the liver strong, clear and healthy. For the cure of Habitual Constipation of the bowels it is a reliable laxative and tonic, and those who have used it for this purpose are loud in its praise.

The proprietor offers $1,000 reward for a medicine that will equal it for the cure of all the diseases for which it is recommended.

Sold by druggists at $1 per bottle. Prepared by R. V. Pierce, M. D., Sole Proprietor, at his Chemical Laboratory, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES: SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES THE BODY UNDERGOES UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT

Every Day an Increase in Flesh and Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates Health, Strength, Vitality, and Elasticity to the fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the waste of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular Diseases, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and Breast, Pains and Blotches on the Skin, Sores, Stubborn Ulcers, Eruptions on the Face, and the worst forms of Skin diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Scurfiness, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the system, are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its great power to cure them.

Of the pollutic, leaky humors released by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, exceeds in quantity these wastes, and repairs the same with new material, and a perfect healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

As only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all other blood purifiers in the cure of chronic, scrofulous, constitutional, and Skin diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney & Bladder Complaints,

Urinary, and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Retention of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminous Deposits, and all cases where there are brickdust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there are pains in the back, sides, bowels, and bladder, and the natural powers, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the head of the Back and Loins. Price, $1.00.

WORMS.—The only known and sure Remedy for Worms in Children, Dogs, etc.

Tumor of 12 Years' Growth Cured by Radway's Resolvent.

BOSTON, Mass., July 18, 1868.

Mr. RADWAY: I have had Cancerous Tumor in the stomach and breast. All the Doctors said "There was no help for it." I tried Radway's Resolvent, and nothing helped me. I saw your handbill, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, for I had tried almost everything for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief, and there is not a sign of tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel stronger, and better than I have for twelve years. You need not wait to see the left side of the breast, cure the great, for it is all right. You can publish it if you like.

VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

EUREKA

VINEGAR BITTERS

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Headache, Pain in the shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia. In these complaints it has no equal, and our books will prove a later guarantee of its worth than a mere advertisement.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a general agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, and in Bilious Diseases.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

The properties of Dr. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic and Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

THE QUEEN

THE AMERICAN

BUTTON-HOLE OVERSEAMING

AND COMPLETE SEWING MACHINE.

The first and only BUTTON-HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE combined that has made its advent in this or any other country.

The following reasons are given why this is the best.

Family Machine to Purchase.

1. Because it will do everything that any machine can do, sewing from the finest to the coarsest material, hemming, felling, cording, braiding, binding gathering and sewing on, at the same time ruffling, quilting, etc., better than any other machine.

2. Because it can work a beautiful button-hole, making as fine a pearl as by the hand.

3. Because it will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment.

No other Machine can accomplish the kind of sewing stated in Nos. 2, 3, 4, and 5.

4. Because it will work a beautiful eyelet hole.

5. Because it can do over-hand seaming, by which sheets, pillow cases and the like are sewed over and over.

6. Because the best mechanics pronounce it the best finished and made on the best principle of any machine manufactured.—It has no springs to break; nothing to get out of order.

7. Because it is two machines in one. A BUTTON-HOLE WORKING and SEWING MACHINE combined.

The American or Plain Sewing Machine.

(Without the button-hole parts), does all that is done on the Combination except button-hole and over-seaming.
